

Update 18.3.2020 as of 2pm

Good afternoon all,

We just wanted to reassure you all that we have no plans to close Robin Hood, any advice or recommendations we are given are at the same time as everyone else receives them. The children are in their classes learning and we have managed to ensure that there is limited, if any, disruption to learning... it really is business as usual here; there are no confirmed cases associated with school in terms of staff or children. Our attendance today has been an impressive 93%.

Should there be any instruction from the Government that we need to close, we are currently finalising our contingency plans in order that children can access work from home. If you do not have access to the internet can you please let us know by ringing the school office please. Children will also be sent a home learning book to ensure that they have a range of activities to complete, not just online... and families with more than one child can facilitate their learning.

Can I also please remind you all that if you as parents and carers are self-isolating as you have any of the coronavirus symptoms, that you should ensure that everyone in your household is self-isolating, including your children... this is in line with Government recommendations and we ask that you adhere to this and let school know.

Thank you again for your continued support,

Mrs Harris
